Baccalaureate Service
The baccalaureate service for the Senior class of the Norway high school, class of 1916, was held Sunday afternoon, at the Norway Opera House, at 3 o'clock. The seating capacity of the hall was filled with an attentive and interested audience. The orchestra music for the afternoon was furnished by Frank Kimball, clarinet; Azola, Pike, piano; Walter S. Stearns, Grace Dean, Roland McCormack, violins; Allie Cote, cornet; Clarence L. DeCosta, bass. Selections were given by a double quartet composed of Alice Bardeen, Mrs. Chester Briggs of Mechanic Falls, soprano; Mrs. Lela C. Smiley, Mrs. C. L. DeCosta, contralto; Floyd Haskell, Chester Briggs, tenor; Hermon L. Horne and F. W. Walker, bass, with Mrs. Charles S. Akers at the piano. A fine vocal solo was rendered by Alice Bardeen, in a very pleasing manner. The stage was prettily decorated with ferns and potted plants.

The opening and closing prayers were offered by Rev. R. J. Bruce. The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. C. G. Miller. Mr. Miller took for his subject: "The Unsearchable Riches of Christ," and held the close attention of the large audience. In his opening remarks, Mr. Miller expressed his wish that he might be back again seated with the graduates, reserving his present knowledge. He said in part: "Everyone admires youth and would like to be young. Youth is the richest part of life with all life before it. To keep young, don't acknowledge you are growing old, but keep yourself young with the passing of the years. Life is very much like my trip down from Bryant's Pond after the rain this afternoon, when on account of the mud was a winding, zig-zag path, full of ups and downs. In this path of life is found immorality and un-morality and the force for resistance comes from within us. The unsearchable riches are found in the Christ and are not counted in terms of money. Christ was the most gifted of men and lived a humble life. Nine-tenths of humanity never has what the other one-tenth has." He compared the richness in life to the farms of New England vs. the farm-lands of the West; the huge stones of India cut and chiseled in contrast to the huge sphinx and pyramids of the Nile in Egypt.

"If you want to make money don't enter the ministry; become a lawyer or a doctor; for the making of money look to the world."

"When in darkness, find more light. The mines are administered with bright electric lights throughout the shafts and the miners can live there comfortably. Every city has its slums, except the city of Berlin in Europe. To do away with these slums, give them light; the light of God."

"At school you have had a smattering of knowledge; some will enter higher institutions of learning and continue and seek more light. Everyone is in a great travail from birth until death, and the longer you live the more light will come to you if you seek for it."

"Life is like the stage with its shifting scenes. The greatest study is of human souls, which are the gift of God and a sign of the greatness of God, who gave you something you did not seek for. Do not be small or mean, learn with the passing of days and seek for the high things, be merciful and be large-hearted. A smile is an expression of love and light in the soul of man and one cannot have it if it is not in the soul. Know your heart, don't hold any bitterness, do good deeds and entertain kind thoughts. Jesus had love in his heart and as you live and love, have perfect respect for man-hood and woman-hood; have perfect respect for the home and the government."

"Don't cease to learn, don't reach the petrified stage—progress. A person who knows it all has become fossilized; learn from all sources, from every new book and obtain a high estimation of the God-given faculties and 'let your light so shine before men, that they may see you art in heaven.' Learn, obtain knowledge, and seek for the 'unsearchable riches of Christ.'"

Wood-Proctor
A very pretty home wedding took place at half past one o'clock, Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. Perley Proctor, Main street, when their only daughter, Ethel May Wood, was united in marriage to Charles Clark Wood of Bluehill. Rev. H. L. Nichols, pastor of the Methodist church officiated. The single ring service being used. Only the immediate family of the bride witnessed the ceremony. The bride was attired in a gown of white net over white satin, silver lace and ribbon trimmings, and carried a bouquet of brides roses and white sweet peas. A dainty wedding lunch was served immediately after the ceremony.

Later amid showers of rice and confetti, the happy couple departed by auto for an extended wedding trip, a part of which will be spent at Portland, Rockland and Bluehill. The bride traveled in a becoming suit of blue with hat of grey.

Mr. Wood is the son of Arthur B. Wood of Bluehill and was educated in the schools of that place, after which he attended business college at Rockland. For the past five years he has been employed by the Maine Telephone and Telegraph Company as line foreman.

Mrs. Wood is a native of Norway, and after having obtained a High school education, has been employed at different times in the shoe factories of Auburn and Norway, recently being in the employ of the Carroll, Peabody, Jellerson Co. of this town. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wood unite in wishing them long years of unalloyed happiness.

Honor the Flag.
It is fitting that the American people should on a designated day in the year pay homage to the flag and recall its meaning. The flag is the symbol of the people's sovereignty. It represents the achievements of this nation of free men in the past and its aspirations for the future. It serves to remind the American people of the duties which they owe to their country and to themselves.

Wednesday, July 14, was flag day and about the usual amount of Norway people displayed the flag with a few additional ones. It is hoped next year on flag day, every business place, every residence, every manufacturing, every school building, every place of amusement, everywhere in the town of Norway the flag will proudly float on the breeze till it will look like the most patriotic town in the United States of America.

Mrs. Nellie Millett of Waterville is in town attending the graduation of her nephew, Howard V. Evans.

An Old Fashioned Home Remedy Many men and more women are often ailing and poorly, without being really sick. They feel mean and out of sorts, restless and nervous, with little appetite, weak stomach, and maybe suffer from frequent sick headaches and bilious attacks. In other words, they are all "run-down" and need something that will build them up. A good remedy for this purpose is "L. F. F. Atwood's Medicine." While not a cure-all, it acts as a general tonic and conditioner, toning the stomach, improving the appetite, purifying the blood and stimulating the liver. So thorough that it will benefit the biggest man, and so safe that it may be taken by the weakest woman or frailest child. The family stand-by for over sixty years. Buy a 35c bottle at your nearest store, or write to-day for free sample. "L. F. F." Medicine Co., Portland, Me.

BON VOYAGE

We sailed away on a starry night With a north wind to the sea. From the old town by the murmuring sea, All steady, the moon's track followed we, A brave and gallant crew.

The pilot hailed us from the deep Where calm the light-ships bore, A thing of beauty upon the wave, Or diamonds flung at ocean grave. Beneath, behind and before.

So we still sailed on into the night Silent and sweet, and spectral and white. Into the light of the salty night, Silent and sweet, and spectral and white. Bathed in light rose Bunker Hill.

And Middlesex meadows seen afar With sugar leaves of hay— Meadows through which rode Paul Revere To warn the yeomanry dwelling near, The British were not far away.

So sail thou on, O Ship of State, On life's restless, swelling sea, No sign to follow, no hidden reef, Thy Pilot, God, thy trust, relief, In years that are to be. —Dana Harlow.

THE GRAND ARMY HOST UNSEEN Memorial Poem by Martha Maxim

Although in distant lands today, War's terrors rend our souls, O'er peaceful homes, and loyal hearts O'er banner stars and drums.

O'er green repose of Oxford hills No echoing war cry comes— From far off Southern battlefields No bare of life and drums.

And innocent blood of heroes Has long since ceased to flow; The leveled grass the flag of war, Are things of the Long Ago.

Full long the dewy paths of Peace Our grateful feet have pressed, Encompassing, after each day's march, Nearer the ramparts blest.

Each year some comrades fallers, Faithful loyal, at his post, And joins the great Grand Army Of the Unseen Heavenly Host.

And again some well loved brother Is mustered from the band, And another mound in Riverside We deck with reverent hand.

One by one they swell the numbers Round the campfires of the blest— At the call of their Great Commander They have entered Eternal Rest.

Upon the breast of Mother Earth They laid their knapsacks down, And now, on Heavenly Memorial Day, They wear the Victor's crown.

By winding ways of the Androscoggin They're lulled to peaceful sleep, Where's stately oak and maple royal A solemn vigil keep.

Sing soft, O murmuring river, And again some well loved brother Is mustered from the band, And another mound in Riverside We deck with reverent hand.

Our attention has been called to the fact that many people desiring to advertise by signs, etc., still have the habit of mailing them to the trees, which is an injury to the tree. The party talking in regard to this remarked: "Do you suppose the parties on whose land the tree grows on which these signs are nailed will patronize that man? No, sir."

Oxford Electric Company.
The Public Utilities Commission has rendered a decision approving the application of the Oxford Electric Co. for an issue of securities. The decision is as follows:

"The Oxford Electric Co., a public utility engaged in operating a street railway in the villages of Norway and South Paris, proposes to enter into a contract with the inhabitants of the town of Norway, to be dated June 1, 1916, subject to the approval of this commission, which is in effect of the issue of an evidence of indebtedness payable at periods of more than 12 months from the date thereof, and asks such approval."

"The track of the Oxford Electric Company extends through a portion of Main street, in said Norway. The town now proposes to lay a pavement or other permanent surface on said street and it is desirable that the space between the rails of the petitioner's track and each side thereof should be paved, or otherwise permanently improved, as part of said general scheme. In order to accomplish this economically and in a manner in harmony with the town's plan, it is agreed between the town and petitioner that his work shall be done by the town at an expense to the petitioner of two thousand dollars, payable in annual payments of one hundred dollars each, without interest, the first of said payments to become due and payable on the first day of September, 1916."

"This contract, when executed and subject to performance on the part of the town, will become a promise by the Oxford Electric Company to pay a debt contracted by it and for its benefit, after the expiration of twelve months from its date. It appears clearly to fall within the requirements of Section 35 of the Utilities Act."

"The Oxford Electric Co. be, and it hereby is authorized to execute the aforesaid contract with the inhabitants of the town of Norway whereby it promises to pay said town the sum of two thousand dollars, payable in annual payments of one hundred dollars each, without interest, the first of said payments to become due and payable on the first day of September, 1916."

Paul S. Seavey, a member of the graduating class of Norway High school, 1916, has been presented with a gold watch by his mother, Mrs. F. R. Seavey, and a chain with pocket knife by his sister, Louise Seavey.

The Match and the Dollar

Just as the tiny match may be the start of a great conflagration—so may your money—deposited in The Norway National Bank—be the foundation of your financial independence.

The prime essential, however, in independence-building is the application of judgment—discretion—in all things—and particularly in the choosing of your Bank.

The advantages of The Norway National Bank to you, may be summed up in a few words—

"It is the oldest and strongest National Bank in Oxford County. It has been under the same able, conservative management for more than a third of a century. Its equipment and facilities for the rapid transaction of business are the best modern ingenuity can provide. Its watchword is 'Fidelity, Security, Service.'"

Long time of being separated. We wanted to tell him all sorts of things but he got the first chance. "Say, you know that kid of mine," he began.

"Oh, the one who was an architect?" we asked. "Architect nothing!" shouted Jed. "That was just a notion he took. He never really meant to be anything of the kind. His talent lies in another way, altogether. What do you think? He's a perfect wonder at machinery, that kid. All last summer he shopped for a party that was going across country and they said he was the best one they had ever had. He can take that machine to pieces and put it together again like a dream."

HIS FUTURE

There is a friend of yours and mine whom we meet semi-occasionally, who has a son, now nearly a man, of whom he is very fond and proud. Indeed, he seldom sees a man who is so openly and frankly enamored of his offspring as this chap. You remember well how the conversation always drifts to the lad, first of all whenever we meet at the club, and then how utterly unashamed and bold he is about his brags.

It is noticeable, more so, because you and I both happen to have kids of our own, and naturally would like to say a word for them, in edge-ways, but our fond parent never gives us the chance.

The first time we ever met him, the lad was about five years old; you recollect how Jed entertained us the whole long afternoon, telling the witty things baby said to his nurse, his mother, and even his dog, father, how he declared, then and there, that "that boy would grow up to be a humorist, he knew he would, for my child never uttered such bright things as that and failed to make his mark!" and we acquiesced; there was nothing else to do, though often we got as far as "that reminds me of what" and no further.

Our next information came about the time kid went to grammar school; Jed was on the street car and had sticking out of his pocket a thing that looked like a rolling pin, but which he gravely assured us was a necktie holder, which his young genius had made in manual.

"That boy is going to be a carpenter, sure as you are born; more than that, a contractor and a rich man! You never saw such things as he can make, just give him a jack knife and a shingle, and he can do anything with it; any thing!" Jed declared, and we left him, hunting for hooks to go into that remarkable piece of wood carving. We thought probably the kid would do anything, just about that. And wondered why we never seemed to score when Jed was by. Other times we could say enough for ourselves.

Well, Jed had another story, the next time; the lad had graduated from high school and was spending all the money he could beg from his father for wire and things; "an electrician, a born electrician," declared Jed. "Why, last week he and another kid set up a wireless that really could spark like anything, once they let it alone. He sure will make a hit, too, with this army aviation and all such stuff coming to the front! That lad is just a wonder. Anything he turns his hands to he can do!" Shocking, but somewhat wearisome to us, who have to do with a boy who shows no enthusiasm, least we get our feet tangled in wire coils or get a short circuit to work down through our fingers and toes.

And in due season, the "juice" lost its lure for Jed's wonder, and his newest story was that he had just bought a car. (Jed always emphasized it just that way) had gone up another step in his wonderful career; he had harked back to his old love, though, and was taking architecture lessons, and drawing plans; the houses he had thought of now designing.

"Original, well you never saw anything like," gloated Jed. "He can design a house just as nice as a man in the business. Put every closet in its place and even draw a picture of it so he looks like a professional right in it. I tell you that kid of mine is going to make a cracker jack if he will only stick to his school until he gets through the study part. He don't like to study so well as I wish he did, but energy, say, he is just bolting it down."

"Oh, the one who was an architect?" we asked. "Architect nothing!" shouted Jed. "That was just a notion he took. He never really meant to be anything of the kind. His talent lies in another way, altogether. What do you think? He's a perfect wonder at machinery, that kid. All last summer he shopped for a party that was going across country and they said he was the best one they had ever had. He can take that machine to pieces and put it together again like a dream."

HIS FUTURE

There is a friend of yours and mine whom we meet semi-occasionally, who has a son, now nearly a man, of whom he is very fond and proud. Indeed, he seldom sees a man who is so openly and frankly enamored of his offspring as this chap. You remember well how the conversation always drifts to the lad, first of all whenever we meet at the club, and then how utterly unashamed and bold he is about his brags.

It is noticeable, more so, because you and I both happen to have kids of our own, and naturally would like to say a word for them, in edge-ways, but our fond parent never gives us the chance.

The first time we ever met him, the lad was about five years old; you recollect how Jed entertained us the whole long afternoon, telling the witty things baby said to his nurse, his mother, and even his dog, father, how he declared, then and there, that "that boy would grow up to be a humorist, he knew he would, for my child never uttered such bright things as that and failed to make his mark!" and we acquiesced; there was nothing else to do, though often we got as far as "that reminds me of what" and no further.

Our next information came about the time kid went to grammar school; Jed was on the street car and had sticking out of his pocket a thing that looked like a rolling pin, but which he gravely assured us was a necktie holder, which his young genius had made in manual.

"That boy is going to be a carpenter, sure as you are born; more than that, a contractor and a rich man! You never saw such things as he can make, just give him a jack knife and a shingle, and he can do anything with it; any thing!" Jed declared, and we left him, hunting for hooks to go into that remarkable piece of wood carving. We thought probably the kid would do anything, just about that. And wondered why we never seemed to score when Jed was by. Other times we could say enough for ourselves.

Well, Jed had another story, the next time; the lad had graduated from high school and was spending all the money he could beg from his father for wire and things; "an electrician, a born electrician," declared Jed. "Why, last week he and another kid set up a wireless that really could spark like anything, once they let it alone. School closed May 19th in district 172 at Arnold after a successful term of nine months. The teacher and pupils were greatly surprised by the patrons and friends who arrived at noon at the school house bringing well filled baskets. These contained all kinds of goodies which go to make a bounteous picnic dinner.

After dinner was over a fine program consisting of songs, recitations and school work by the different grades was rendered by the pupils. One of the interesting things of the school work was a spelling contest by the second grade. There were four contests the last one that missed spelled 150 words, the last one 170 words. The winner was but six years old. This grade had no special drilling. After the program the pupils were given a treat of assorted candy and oranges by their teacher. Later it was announced by one of the visitors that there was ice cream for all which was another surprise. In this school there is a wonder, a boy of six years. He has attended school only one term. During this time he has read ten books. He can do all fundamental processes of examples in arithmetic in both the second and third grades. He is a good writer and is acquainted with geography and language work. This lad was the winner in the spelling contest. ## A REMARKABLE STATEMENT

Mrs. Sheldon Spent $1900 for Treatment Without Benefit. Finally Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Englewood, Ill.—"While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking my medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Lincoln Hospital."—Mrs. E. SHELTON, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Corporal Punishment.
At a called hearing of the Waterford school board last week for cause, it was decided there must be no more punishment inflicted by the principal upon young pupils with a ruler during the remainder of the term.

And that reminds me within the memory of many yet, punishment by flogging disorderly seamen in the U. S. Navy was abolished by Congress and the methods of prison discipline in our great penitentiaries are being reformed to eliminate much of the objectionable life. Why may not our common school participate in the wave of public opinion in modes of governing juvenile humanity?

Frank Monroe and Will of Melrose Highlands and West Somerville, came Saturday by automobile to their old home, the residence of their mother, Mrs. Augusta Monroe. The boys are scouring the ponds hereabouts in their passion for fishing. A four pound salmon was taken in Bear pond by Frank on one of his first trips.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greenleaf of Brockton arrived at Oak Lodge on Saturday for their summer outing.

Did you hear it thunder, thunder! It rained and it rained and it rained and it didn't rain rain to me; it rained daisies and daisies and violets.

Who is your candidate for Governor and member of Congress, U. S. Senator, and members of Legislature? Will they favor the passage of the amendment to our constitution to remove the odious obstruction to the enjoyment by the American woman of her natural God given rights to life, liberty and self-government? Who can answer?

NEW PERFECTION KITCHEN PRIMER

What Have We Here?

It is a chimney.
But haven't I seen it before?
Yes, it is part of the New Perfection Oil Cook Stove, which is now serving over 2,000,000 homes. It is an important part, too, for this long blue chimney makes the New Perfection odorless, smokeless, and trouble-proof.

Like a gas stove?
Better, in some ways. It's less expensive—burns only about six cents worth of kerosene a day. And it's portable—you can do your cooking wherever it is most convenient.

1916 model New Perfections have the new patented reversible glass reservoir and many other improvements. They are sold in 1, 2, 3, and 4-burner sizes by dealers everywhere.

"A. B. A." Cheques: level the way for the traveler

These Cheques are particularly convenient for the motor tourist. Since they are accepted like cash by hotels, auto supply dealers, merchants and railroad companies, in payment of bills and services, the owner does not have to wait until banking hours before using them. The only identification needed is the countersignature of the owner in the presence of the person accepting the Cheques.

IT takes extra fine flour to make all three equally well, but William Tell does it, because it is milled by a special process from Ohio Red Winter Wheat. If you aspire to blue ribbon bread, cake and pastry that keep the family looking forward to your next treat, tell the grocer that nothing will do but William Tell—the flour that goes farther.

-quality

It has always been said in the motor industry that you never were able to judge Studebaker quality by Studebaker price—the prices have always been so reasonable. But there never has been a time when this was truer than now—in the new SERIES 17 Studebaker Models. Come in and see the cars—the QUALITY cars of the year.

fine manner. At noon a delicious hot dinner was served to which over 100 hungry grangers did ample justice. In the afternoon a crowd attended the exercises which were very interesting. There was an orchestra in attendance and their selections were greatly enjoyed. The violin solo in particular was very fine. The address by Prof. George A. Yeaton of the Farm Demonstration Bureau on the topic: "The value of the farmer's garden," was very helpful to the grangers; also his explanation of the best method of taking care of the orchard from the time of setting out the young trees until they are in bearing. His talk will be a help to many of his hearers. There was a unique recitation by a Sister granger and remarks by th Rev. Charles Fisher. In every way the meeting was a success and was enjoyed by all present.

teacher and other friends, had a fine entertainment at the Grange Hall, Saturday evening for the benefit of Lucius of J. Q. Adams at West Stoneham. Ice cream and cake were on sale and a goodly

Ice Cold Drinks and Delicious Ice Cream

Cold drinks are popular these hot days, of course, but there is more than that back of the tremendous increase in business at our soda fountain. It indicates that the people of this place not only want what they want, but also that they know the place where they can find the best. The Soda and Ice Cream we sell are pure, delicious and healthful—and the fact that they are better than you can buy anywhere else, is the best reason in the world for coming here.

Cool Soda, Ice Cream Soda, Luscious Phosphates, De-
